Sujan Jawai Leopard Camp, Rajasthan

Set in the Aravalli Hills, a comfortable three-hour drive from either Udaipur or Jodhpur, past dry riverbeds and acacia trees in the middle of Rajasthan countryside, is Jawai, where more than 60 leopards are resident in the rocky granite kopjes that rise above the bush close to camp. The latest creation of the luxury Sujan camps group, Jawai aims to redefine the whole concept of an Indian safari, so that it is not just a sanctuary of glamorous refinement, but also a model for eco-tourism and big cat conservation. Jawai provides veterinary care for the livestock of the striking red-turbaned Rabari herdsmen who live here, and supports educational projects in the local villages. sujanluxury.com/jawai
