

Forbes

Asia / #DeLuxe

AUG 25, 2017 @ 01:00 PM 1,398

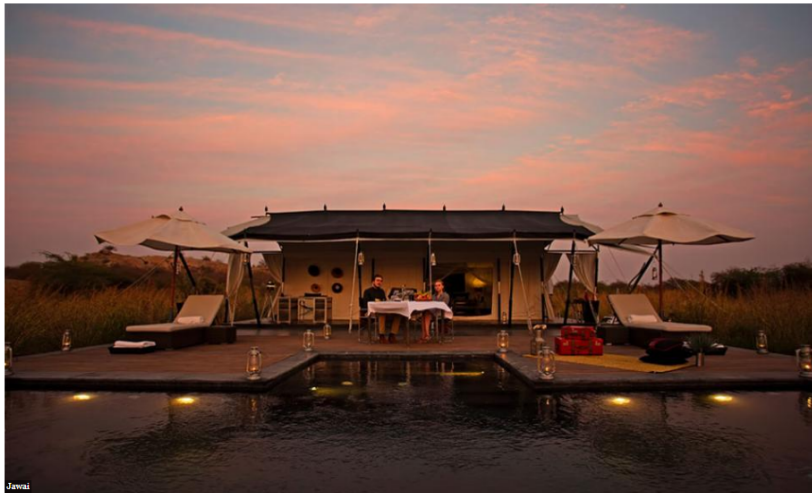

Skip The Hotel: Five Unforgettable Luxury Adventures In Asia

Tarandip Kaur, CONTRIBUTOR
FULL BIO

Opinions expressed by Forbes Contributors are their own.

Jawai Leopard Camp

Jawai

With such an arresting view, there's no need to think twice when considering a stay amid nature.

A luxury tented camp in the wilderness outside Jawai Bandh, India -- a couple of hours' drive from either Jodhpur or Udaipur -- the Jawai Leopard Camp is the only safari camp in the area. But don't let the word "camp" fool you.

Designed by the owners, Anjali and Jaisal Singh, Jawai represents a style that beautifully melds subtle opulence with nature's grittiness. From the nine luxurious double tents and a royal family suite, the camp offers an exclusive experience within a background of large granite formations, caves and winding sand riverbeds.

Each tent has a certain understated elegance. Created with canvas, stainless steel and leather elements, each tent comes with its own private veranda that opens up to an arresting view of the wilderness around.

Approximate cost: starting at $2,000 per night