

Inside the new Suján Rajmahal Palace hotel in India

1/24

SHARE

Originally built in 1729 by the Maharaja of Jaipur, the Rajmahal Palace was converted into a hotel 35 years ago and has hosted guests such as Jacqueline Kennedy. This year, Suján resort group reveals a restoration by designer Adil Ahmad, commissioned by The Royal Family of Jaipur. The new design features a plethora of coloured wallpapers and fabrics among royal motifs, classic architecture old world art items.