

“50 Rare Finds”

WSJ

THE OFF DUTY HOLIDAY GIFT GUIDE

50 Rare Finds

No one desperately wants to unwrap sad, ordinary socks. Or a ballpoint pen. This holiday, we've hunted down 50 true unicorn presents— from one-of-a-kind buys to handmade originals, rich with idiosyncrasy

Published Nov. 29, 2017

An Insider's Tour of Mexico City

Sleep Like A Raja

Not Your Average Puzzle

Vinegar That Tastes Like Summer in a Bottle

My Favorite Entirely Common Thing

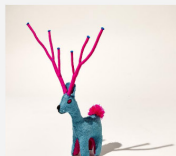

Expressionistic AirPods

Quilty As Charged

A Stocking Stuffer From the Sea

A Handmade Animalito

The Rarest Nikes of Them All

An Unbeatable Beetle

Bejeweled Marsupials

Vinegar That Tastes Like Summer in a Bottle

SUJAN

Sleep Like A Raja

Is there someone on your list with royal taste? Consider gifting him or her a stay at an Indian palace hotel. But don't settle for just any opulent pile, overstuffed with dusty tapestries and antiques. The 18th-century Suján Rajmahal in Jaipur, an erstwhile Maharajah residence, reopened its doors in 2015 after a playful reboot. Each of the 14 suites, awash in fuchsia, violet and royal blue, and countless wallpaper prints, looks entirely distinct. And many are named for former pedigreed guests, including Jackie O. and Queen Elizabeth. How's that for royal cred? From $930 a night sujanluxury.com/raj-mahal/

—Sarah Khan

A Handmade Animalito